Dan Gould is the Director of the Institute for the Study of Youth Sports and Professor in the Department of Kinesiology at the Michigan State University. Prior to assuming his current duties Dan held positions at the University of North Carolina Greensboro (UNCG), Kansas State University and the University of Illinois. A specialist in applied sport psychology, Dan teaches graduate courses in the area and is heavily involved in the graduate program. He received the UNCG prestigious all-University Alumni Excellence in Teaching Award and the American Psychological Association Division 47 Professional Education and Training Award. During his career Dan has focused equal attention on research, teaching and service activities in applied sport psychology. He has consulted extensively with numerous athletes of all age and skill levels and involved in a wide range of sports. Dan has served as a performance enhancement consultant with the U.S. Ski Team and numerous Olympic athletes. He has consulted with the pit crews of some of NASCAR's leading race teams. In addition to consulting directly with athletes, Dan has been heavily involved in coaching education and youth sports having made over 500 clinic presentations. He has also served on the U.S. Olympic coaching development committee for ten years and co-chaired the sport science and technology committee. Currently, he serves as vice chair of the USTA Sport Science and Coaching Committee.
